

TODAY'S READINGS

Today we begin the Gospel of Luke. Luke was a gentile, and he wrote his Gospel for Christians who may not have known the Jewish scriptures, Jewish law or religious practice. His purpose was to record the Gospel handed on to him by Paul and other disciples. Luke's is the most tender of Gospels, the most intimate, with the most stories of healing and the most references to women. Let us pray today to be like the people we will hear about in our first reading, who stood for hours listening to God's word.
